Globalisation Series:

Towards a New Equilibrium of the International Order through Renewed Global Governance and Multilateral Cooperation

In Michaelmas Term 2022, Oxford Prospects and Global Development Institute hosts its Globalisation in-conversation series, curated jointly by Dr Shidong Wang (Director of OPGDI) and Dr Myra Blyth (Senior Research Associate of the institute).

The aim of this series of conversations between leading academic thinkers and key international policymakers and practitioners, is to nurture multi-disciplinary dialogue between academics and key actors on the global stage and to promote fresh understanding and vision for a renewed international order.

We are delighted that Professor Ian Goldin - Professor of Globalisation and Development, founding Director of the Oxford Martin School and formerly Vice President of the World Bank - will speak in the inaugural dialogue. He will take as his starting point the arguments put forward in his latest book, "Rescue: from global crisis to a better world". <https://iangoldin.org>

Sir Malcolm Evans, Professor of Public International Law at the University of Bristol and former Chair of the United Nations Subcommittee for the Prevention of Torture, will engage in dialogue with Prof Goldin (and continue as host for the third event with Sir Tim Hitchens and Alice Nderito).

Throughout the series, distinguished guest speakers will offer their experiences and analysis of the current opportunities and threats to global order on topics including international diplomacy, climate change, public health, and poverty eradication, etc.
